Nature's Symphony

Autumn Miller

The harvest moon
Gives an iridescent glow
Onto the reflecting pool below.
Crickets and cicadas sing in Perfect harmony as
The frogs now start their chorus.
In this symphony the only conductor
Is God,
Who has created this masterpiece.
The reeds by the pool sway in the gentle wind and begin their part in the piece.
The wind quiets and the
Crickets and cicadas quiet as well.
Now the moon is the star soloist
In Nature's symphony.
