OLIVIA BARDO is a senior English major with minors in Politics and Gender Studies. She is a lover of stories and a baker of bread. You may find her caught up amid adventures among blueberry fields in the Appalachians, perched in a bookstore, or in search of the meaning of life...or best cup of coffee.

JENNA BECKER is a junior English major at Messiah University. She is a Chinese American, born in China and raised by her adoptive mother in America. Beyond the basic introductory pleasantries, she is an aspiring creator, investigator, teacher, healer and learner- or in short- a writer. She is a voice with a cadence that wanes with the wind. She is a voice with the resilience of a hurricane.

CHRISTINE BYE graduated in December 2020 with a double-major in English and Spanish. She currently works for a law firm in Lancaster. In her free time - among other things - she works on her family's farm, goes for long, slow runs, or re-reads some of her favorite books.

ELLEN DIEHL is a senior theatre major with a double minor in dance and English. After graduating this Spring, she will be moving to Cleveland, Ohio, where she will receive her MFA in Acting from Case Western Reserve University. When she's not taking classes herself, Ellen teaches dance at several local studios, including Dance Revelation. Writing is one of her favorite mediums of expression and reading the wonderful pieces within this publication was a joy and privilege!
