Heidelberg Catechism Question 54

Abby Smoker (Psychology 2023)

then Father, preserve me take these fresh fruits i pile beside Your throne take this tree i strive to upkeep before You and petrify it, douse it in resin gather those fruits in large pots and labor over them keep them as jams, sweeten them so they may never spoil then Father! gather me up the tornado of notes and endless words and newborn plans the heartstrings ever requiring tuning run Your red yarn between them, lift them into midair, collect them like postcards You are warmed to receive. then Father, defend!
 where my shaking hands cannot prop the shield into place where my watchdogs miss, distracted by passing cars where life slips through my fingers because i forget to oil the joints lend me Your shades, that i may see You alone, and You in everything and You in everyone.
