General Conference
Upland, California,
June 8-13, 1921

General Conference convened the first time in California in June 1921. Interesting information is gleaned from June 20 and July 4, 1921, issues of the Evangelical Visitor.

TRAavel

According to previous arrangements, the various delegations from Pennsylvania, Canada and the Central States left Chicago on the night of June 4, enroute to Upland, California, where, for the first time in the history of the Church, our Annual Conference was to be held.

“Tbe delegation out of Chicago numbered ninety and was later joined by the Kansas delegation at Strong City and others, which brought the number up to about one hundred and thirty.

“Sunday, June 5, was spent in quiet devotion and services. The talks given by the different brethren were inspiring and helpful. The train made numerous stops along the way, and at a number of places Gospel songs were sung and short talks given to crowds gathered at the stations.

“On account of the disastrous floods through Colorado, we were routed south through Oklahoma and Texas. We crossed the Canadian river at Canadian, Texas; and while heavy rains were encountered along the way, the flood waters did not cross our path until after we were beyond the above point, where the foundations of the large bridge spanning the river were washed out. Many prayers of thanksgiving were offered to God for His tender mercy and care which He had extended toward us.

“The delegation reached Upland, California, on Wednesday A. M. and a hearty welcome was given us. Breakfast was waiting for us in the large basement.

BUSINESS

“The delegates from the various districts met in preliminary session on Thursday A. M.; and after filling the vacancies on the various boards, the day was spent in the different boards getting their work ready for presentation to Conference. The new church at Upland, being so commodiously built, all the boards could meet in the adjacent rooms.

“... In the closing days of Conference there were some important measures adopted and some important ones lost. . . .

“The Reading Course for ministers, for which Conference was petitioned two years ago was lost, the committee's work not being accepted. . . .

“The Beulah College at Upland, California petitioned for recognition by Conference and while a strong sentiment of sympathy was expressed toward the splendid effort of the Church in California, the official recognition of the school was deferred for one year. . . .

“Recommendations from the Foreign Missionary Board were adopted which provide for the following.

“The usage of thirty-five hundred dollars of the money which was raised in the Armenian drive (several years ago) for mission work among the Armenians in Boston. Armenia as a mission field is closing for the present and large numbers of the Armenians are settled in Boston.

“On Sunday evening farewell addresses were given by Bishop C. N. Hostetter and Elder D. W. Heise, who will leave soon after Conference to visit our foreign missionary fields. . . . These brethren need our prayers as they go forth that they may be definitely used of God during this tour.

GENERAL

“We are living in a world of very mixed conditions and to meet the various contingencies which we are compelled to face without sacrificing the principles for which we stand, and to retain the inner glow of divine love for each other, and precious souls, together with the Holy Spirit's empowerment for service, requires a close watch on the heart, a frequent humbling of ourselves before the Lord, until we receive (as one brother calls it) a weeping blessing.

“These conditions have a tendency of causing even those who may have been considered spiritual leaders to com-
The 95th Annual General Conference of our brotherhood convenes in the midst of a problem conscious world. Hopeless ideological conflicts, rabid sectionalism, and egotistical racism tear at the fibres of our civilization. Seething caldrons of hatred, fired by the fagots of greed, poverty, and suspicion, threaten to spue violence over the nations. Gigantic technological strides have transformed man’s environment, but left his basic nature unchanged and therefore, formed man’s environment, but left his basic needs unmet.

Urged on by the perverted impulses of his depraved nature, modern man has shattered the ancient Judeo-Christian yardstick of morality. In spiritual blindness he gropes unsuccessfully to find another. Professed Christians, at least in North America, appear satiated with the leeks and garlics of our neo-pagan culture. The nominal church flexes ecumenical muscles in a vain attempt to replace the shorn locks of supernatural power.

In the Brethren in Christ Church we have our own set of perplexities. This General Conference will address itself to unfinished tasks and new assignments, many of which are painfully relevant to the problems of our generation. It is our purpose this morning to focus upon "Our Glorious King—His Person, His Throne, His Sceptre and His Kingdom.”

of Thy Kingdom. From this text and the context of the first two chapters of this book we shall view “Our Glorious King—His Person, His Throne, His Sceptre and His Kingdom.”

The Glory of His Person

The glory of Jesus Christ is intrinsically dependent upon who He is. The knowledge of this glory dawns upon the soul as we understand the essence of His divine nature.

In rapid sequence the anonymous author of Hebrews sketches the person of Jesus Christ, the Son of God. He is the appointed Heir of all things. He is the Creator of the worlds. He is the Brightness of the Glory of God. The express image of the person of God. He upholds all things by the Word of His Power. Since purging our sins, He is seated on the right hand of the Majesty on high. He is above all the hosts of Heaven and is worshipped by them. Then coming to a dramatic apex of revelation regarding the person of Jesus the Scripture declares, But unto the Son, He saith, Thy throne O God is for ever and ever and . . . Here is a quotation from Psalm 45 which ascribes the name of the Lord God Jehovah to the Messiah—to Jesus Christ. He is Jehovah Jesus, boldly declared to be the brightness of God’s glory and the express image of His person.

Artists portray to us something of the person of Jesus Christ as they believe He may have appeared during His earthly ministry. A more accurate picture of Jesus as He now is can be seen in the first chapter of Revelation. His face shining like the sun in full strength (Rev. 1:16 NEB). Oh that some artist could portray Him as He really is! But alas, what a preposterous assignment to put the Lord of Glory on a piece of canvas. We must wait until with rapture we behold Him.

This One who heads the Church is very God of very God—God Himself. He it is who made the worlds. “Without Him was not anything made that was made” (John 1:3). The glory of creation—that is the glory of Jesus. The glory which Moses beheld in the Mount—that is the glory of Jesus. The glory which Isaiah saw filling the whole earth—that is the glory of Jesus. He is the image of God. The Greek word, here translated “image” means an impression produced by a die. Jesus Christ is divinity “die cast” in human form. “In Him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily” (Col. 2:9).

There is no other way that mortal man could look upon the glory of God. It is like looking upon the glory of our natural sun. Johannes Riem, Professor of Astronomy in Hamburg, Germany, says, “Our earth receives only the two thousand millionth part of all the energy which the sun is continually radiating into space.” Even at this 93 million mile distance the human eye cannot look at the sun. A child said, “Daddy, what colour is the sun. I cannot look to see, yet I can see the sunshine.” My brethren, we cannot see God, yet we can look at Jesus Christ and see His glory. Cannon Liddon, speaking of Jesus Christ in this connection says He is “like a ray of light from the parent fire, from which it is unbrokenly joined.

Here in Jesus Christ is the visible radiance of the Unapproachable Light. As John so clearly states it “No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared Him” (John 1:18) and again “And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth" (John 1:14).

Of course, no time in the long history of man upon earth did God leave the race without light. Shafts of truth stream into our darkness from the patriarchs, the prophets, the kings. God spoke in sundry times and in divers manners, but now in the culmination of revelation He has spoken unto us by His Son. As Alford of England says in comparing the prophets and Jesus, "The prophets were shifting lines of separated colour. Christ is the full revelation of God Himself, the pure light uniting in His one person the whole spectrum."

How privileged are we who understand these things. We who live in these last days have had God speak to us by His Son. He who superintends the universe and He who is Head of the Church is our one and only Saviour Jesus Christ. He is the everlasting Stay of His Church. We bow before Him to worship and adore.

The divine, eternal majesty of Jesus Christ is the corner stone of our faith. Man-made religion fills the earth. Men of many minds and as many purposes bid for our fellowship. We must try the spirits (I John 4:1-3). Remember the doctrine of Jesus Christ is the cardinal doctrine of the church, the touch stone of fidelity, the criterion for fellowship. "Whosoever transgresseth and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God" (II John 9). Let the Brethren in Christ Church refuse to bid such God speed and let him be Anathema. May we with single voice give glory to God by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end.

His Throne

Our text speaks of the throne of our Glorious King. "Thy Throne O God is for ever and ever." The throne of God signifies His authority. The Psalmist avows, "The Lord hath prepared His throne in the heavens; and His kingdom ruleth over all" (Psalm 103:19). His authority in the universe is supreme. This is not to say that He is without enemies. The misery which plagues the earth testifies unmistakably to the work of Satan and his cohorts of iniquity. Thus the supremacy of our Lord's authority will not be consummated until the day when His enemies are made His footstool (Heb. 1:13).

The Redeemer's authority, however, is particularly accepted in the church. "And He is the Head of the church: who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead; that in all things He might have the pre-eminence" (Col. 1:18). We assembled here, and the company of the redeemed whom we represent, are a part of His body (Eph. 1:22-23). He is the King of Saints (Rev. 15:3). The sovereign authority of Jesus Christ in the church is absolute. It must be totally unchallenged. It stands above human reason, human tradition and human expediency.

Furthermore the sovereignty of our Lord is brought to reality by the communication of His will for us here and now. The will of our King is forever settled in heaven, and revealed to us in the Holy Scriptures. "... Holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" (II Peter 1:21); "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God ..." (II Tim. 3:16). Thus the Brethren in Christ Church own the unquestionable authority of the Scriptures as divinely inspired, and in the words of our confession of faith "... the final authority for faith and practice."

We believe revelation supersedes reason. We declare our senses, separate from divine guidance, to be unreliable in the quest for truth. Human logic falters, and intellectual faculties fail us. The world by wisdom knew not God (I Cor. 1:21). Man's unregenerate mind leads in different directions. It can be bribed into silence, perverted by sin, and educated into error. This is not to assert that divine revelation is anti-scholarship. Indeed we do not follow cunningly devised fables (II Peter 1:16). This thing was not done in a corner (Acts 26:26). The Christian faith invites objective analysis as well as subjective experience. Our colleges take their stand with the certainty that in Christ are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge (Col. 2:3).

The Scriptures present the full-orbed revelation of Jesus Christ. Jesus said, "They are they which testify of me" (John 5:39). The church can progress only as we gain a better understanding of what God has already given us. In the consciousness of our insufficiency we search the inspired Word for a clearer understanding of its revelation, but we tenaciously refuse to tamper with its inherent veracity. From Genesis to Revelation we attest to its unadulterated truth. We expose every tradition we hold, to its searching light. We examine every tenet for our faith, according to its illumination. We chart each course for action, by its eternal principles. We do not correct the Scriptures—the Scriptures correct us.

We further confess that no Scripture is of our private interpretation (II Peter 1:20). We recognize, however, the assurance of our Lord that the Holy Spirit is here to guide us into all truth (John 16:13), and that the eternal truth which cannot be discerned by the natural man is revealed to us by the Spirit (I Cor. 2:9 and 10). Indeed the Holy Spirit is the regent of the Lord Jesus to expedite His work through the church. Our earnest prayer is for the Holy Spirit to reveal the will of the Lord Jesus to us, the General Conference of 1965, and to execute that will through us.

God grants us Spirit-directed deliberations and conclusions. Even as we believe God for this, we do not take to ourselves infallibility. On the other hand, let no one lightly set aside any of the counsels of the church. May the brotherhood heed the Lord's admonition, "Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourselves: for they watch for your souls, as they that must give account, that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for this is unprofitable for you" (Hebrews 13:17). May we, the members of this Conference as carefully follow the instruction, "Yea, all of you be subject one to another and be clothed with humility" (I Peter 5:5). The glory of Jesus Christ in His Word, emanating from the throne of His authority, is displayed in the life of a humble and obedient church.

You will note His throne is "forever and ever." Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today and forever. In the majestic words of verses 10 and 11 "And, Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands: They shall wax old as doth a garment. Some-continually cooling down as they fly through the cold of inter-stellar space. It follows, therefore, that a state must finally be reached—and this applies inescapably to the earth—in which the warmth of the sun, and of the earth itself, will have so far decreased that all life will vanish. The last living being—the last man also—will take its last meal, be overcome by the cold and will die. With it all the efforts of millennia, the whole cultural progress of the human race, every masterpiece of art and science, all achievements in self-ennoblement and idealism will sink into a dark, cold, icy grave, and the earth, a round, icebound, mass cemetery, will race on through the even colder darkness of space, until, perhaps, further developments cause it to vanish completely.” Or, “There is only one way of escaping this gradual cold-death. According to modern science it is—if the great miracle does not take place—by heat-death, or rather fire death. This means a catastrophe caused by increased radiation from the sun or by the collision of two worlds—our earth, or our solar system, with some other body—causing a tremendous explosion, which would dissolve all the elements of the earth in flaming heat.” Whatever lies in the future for the material cosmos, of one fact we are sure: Our King changes not—with Him there is no variability, no shadow caused by turning. His authority will remain throughout the unfolding eternities—unchanged, constant forever. “Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, let us have grace, that we may serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear” (Heb. 13:25).

His Sceptre

We look now at the Sceptre of His Kingdom, which our text calls a sceptre of righteousness. To Bible readers the mention of a sceptre recalls the scene of righteousness. To Bible readers the June 7, 1965 invited into the presence of the king. A-trembling Queen Esther comes uninvited into the august court of King Ahasuerus. “fear” (Heb. 13:28).

This feature of His government springs from His own infinite affection for righteousness. And yet in His righteousness He has compassion on the ignorant, and them that are out of the way (Heb. 5:2). His righteousness includes the remission of sins through the forbearance of God” (Rom. 3:25 and 26). Indeed the same hand which holds the sceptre bears the print of a nail, once driven there as He made atonement for the sins of His rebellious subjects. This King came to His throne by way of a Cross. In the sombre days of His humiliation He, by the grace of God, tasted death for every man (Heb. 2:9). This captain of our salvation was made perfect through suffering (Heb. 2:10). He came to die that through death He might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil; and deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage (Heb. 2:14 and 15). My beloved brethren, the glory of Jesus Christ is enhanced because one day He was nailed to the cross for us. His sceptre of righteousness is extended in mercy, that we who were weary with the fettlers of life, and the certain doom of death, might be set at liberty.

In the days of His flesh He suffered for us. He felt all the innocent emotions of our race: hunger and thirst, weariness and pain. He slept, wept, rejoiced and alas felt in the end the pangs of death, that “king of terrors.” Jesus wore no halo—except a nimbus of thorns—poverty, toil, disappointment, insult, persecution was His lot. He became the captain of our salvation by working Himself up through the ranks of Satanic oppression and temptation. Suffering in the presence of sin is in proportion to our holiness and aversion to evil. How the Holy One of God must have suffered for 33 years amidst a wicked and perverse generation. Praise God He triumphed.

He tasted death for every man and drank up the curse. The vicissitudes of death and the darkness of the grave are vanished forever. His sceptre of righteousness reaches out to raise fallen humanity from the dust and restore Him to the original purposes of creation.

In Heb. 2:10-13 we read how the King of Glory completely identifies Himself with His subjects. Notice: For it became Him, for whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation perfect through suffering. For both He that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one: for which cause He is not ashamed to call them brethren. Saying, I will declare thy name unto my brethren, in the midst of the church I will sing praise unto thee. And again, I will put my trust in Him. And again, Behold I and the children which God hath given me.

He becomes one with redeemed sinners. He brings many sons unto glory and is glorified. He is not ashamed of us. We dare never be ashamed of one another. He calls us brethren. Can we do less? This is the mystery of the fellowship of the church, and what rich fellowship it is!

Wicked, vile, lustful, self-willed rebels are welcomed and received as brothers of the King. With one voice the redeemed join with Charles Wesley in rapt wonderment—

And can it be that I should gain
An interest in the Saviour's blood?
Died He for me who caused His pain?
For me, who Him to death pursued?

Amazing love! How can it be
That Thou, my God, shouldst die for me?

We are children of God. “And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ, if so be that we suffer with Him, that we may be also glorified together” (Rom. 8:17). By bringing us to the level of sons, God has declared that holiness is possible, obedience is voluntary, service is joyous, and resemblance to Him is certain.

The Brethren in Christ Church, through the years of her history, has been concerned with piety and holy living through personal experience with God. Holiness is the aim of God for His children. This can spring only from love to God. During the past 15 years we have made sweeping changes in the patterns of our church life. Some sincere brethren have seen this as a departure from righteousness. Others, equally sincere, have seen a freedom from the letter of legalism, that there might be greater life in the Spirit. Let us remember that the course of the Brethren in Christ Church for this generation is being charted, not only by what General Conference has done in the past 15 years and by what General Conference does (Continued on page eighteen)

MISSIONS

RHODESIA and ZAMBIA are calling for dedicated and qualified Christian teachers to teach their children and to train their teachers.

The urge for education on the part of Africans is nothing short of astounding.

Opportunity Knocks

There is opportunity to supply not only our own Brethren in Christ schools; we could supply other missions as well. Not long ago the Principal of a mission school of another denomination told one of our missionaries that because his church could not supply enough missionary teachers, he was being forced to hire non-Christians to teach in his classrooms on the mission station. He would be most grateful if the Brethren in Christ could supply missionary teachers.

MCC's Teachers for Africa Program—TAP, for short—is an established avenue for such supply. Financial provision would be made to cover the cost of living, travel to and from the States, and furlough allowances. There would be no need to take Brethren in Christ Church funds for this, but it would be an opportunity for the Brethren in Christ to influence the lives of many more African students.

Teachers of Scripture are Needed.

Almost every mission and government school in Southern Rhodesia has provision for the teaching of Scripture daily. If we had sufficient teachers qualified and enthusiastic in the teaching of Scripture, we could supply Brethren in Christ schools, interdenominational schools, government schools, and even schools of other denominations.

Christian teacher, is your present job big enough?

We have seen children eager to learn arrive at their schools as early as 5:30 a.m. Parents are willing to make many financial sacrifices in order to see their children get an education. There is little disciplinary detention in schools in Africa. The punishment is to be kept out, not in.

The church is responsible for 85% of the education in Rhodesia; the reason the percentage is no higher is due to the fact that the church has been unable to keep up with the demand.

One of the greatest opportunities for dedicated Christian educators today is to TEACH AFRICA'S TEACHERS. Missionaries in the classroom teach 25 to 30 students who leave the schools in two years and then go out and teach 40 children in each of their classrooms. Thus one missionary teacher, well qualified and Spirit-filled, can see the influence of his Christian life in the lives of 1,000 children within three years' time.

In SECONDARY (high) SCHOOLS Christian teachers are welcomed to teach young people who will be entering upon a variety of professions and forms of business and government leadership in Africa tomorrow.

Graduates of Mtshabezi Teacher Training School, for Lower Elementary, December, 1964. What potential for Christ lies in their obedience!

The Board for World Missions announces the appointment of Rev. Harvey Sider to the General Superintendency of our Brethren in Christ Missions in India, to succeed Rev. Arthur L. Pye, who leaves Barjora in May for furlough to the homeland. The superintendency of the Church in India will be shared by Brother Sider and national leaders.

We ask your prayers for all of these leaders.

The Pyes are booked to reach New York July 27 and to appear on the Missions Day program at Roxbury Camp the following week.

INDIA'S NEW SUPERINTENDENT

Response

Harvey Sider to Henry N. Hostetter, May 8.

"... You can well imagine that to one so new to India the Superintendent's task does seem like a big responsibility. I feel totally inadequate to this demanding task. In India with everything—socially, economically, religiously, politically—so extremely complex, I keenly sense my lack of knowledge and experience in these areas. In addition, already the work of the Bamankhi station is a full time load. It appears to me that to do justice to both station and superintendent's work may be well nigh impossible. . . ."

"However, we are here as the servants of Jesus Christ, the Church, and the Mission. We have confidence in our Home Church and the Mission. And, above all, we know that we have the assurance of the support—both spiritual and physical—of Jesus Christ. Just yesterday, while continuing my reading from Colossians, I was impressed by the corollary: "Just as you trusted Christ to save you, trust Him too for each day's problems"; and then in the next breath, as though he would support this tremendous promise, Paul said, "Let your roots grow down into Him and draw up nourishment from Him." So with His help and the invaluable aid of His people's prayers we shall do our best to fulfill the task assigned to us.

"In closing we do sincerely request your prayers and those of the Church for this new responsibility. 'We are workers together with Him.'"

MISSIONARY RESIGNS

It is with regret that we announce the resignation, for personal reasons, of Miss Verna Gibble, R.N., from the Brethren in Christ Missions in India. Miss Gibble asserts that she has been tremendously challenged by the opportunities and needs in India and is still deeply interested in India and in the cause of the Gospel. She plans to arrive home in May.

OTHER MISSIONARY MOVES

Arrived in New York, May 3—the David Climenhagas. They will be taking up residence in the missionary home at Grantham, Pa.

Arrived in Toronto, May 8—Mary Jane Shoalts, R.N., from Madhipura Christian Hospital in Bihar, India.

To be relieved from Mtshebezi Mission in Rhodesia, for home furlough, May 24—the Glenn Freys.

Leaving Woodstock School, Landour, India, to visit our missions in Bihar before leaving for furlough to the States, at close of school in early June—Miss Mary Elizabeth Stoner (Mary Beth).

Leaving Beira, June 5, to arrive in New York, July 27, Dr. Alvan Thuma and family.

Food Shortage in India

Rationing began last year with sugar. The amount of sugar secured on ration card varies somewhat in different centers. The past year our quota was 4 lbs. a week. In July last winter while our children were home and during Christmas and canning season I was able to get one special allotment. I believe the other mission stations have been able to get about 4 lbs. per week per household when the sugar is available. This is not retroactive, and if there is no sugar in the shop one week, you cannot get the ration for that week if sugar comes in the next week. At the present there is no sugar at all in the Tirbeniganj area and hasn't been for some weeks. We were able to get one allotment outside the quota in October so we have sugar for the present, but others are not so fortunate. So far, "gur" has been available as a substitute. It is unrefined and a bit like molasses.

We had a continuing rise in food prices but no serious shortages locally until this past summer. At this time other commodities were put on ration nation-wide—flour, cream of wheat, etc. I don't believe this has been available at the other mission areas either. Flour occasionally comes into Saharsa and Madhipura, and then the people there can get up to about 10 lbs. We have been able to get flour locally only since July.

When the scarcity began this summer we had a supply of wheat on hand so we have been more fortunate than some others. We have this ground by hand and make our own cereal and also use it for bread. This type of whole wheat flour without some white flour mixed in is not too successful for bread but it is edible. Madhipura and Saharsa have not been able to get wheat so often but they do occasionally get flour. Shortening has become scarce but there is still some on the market. Since it is gardening season there will be ample food during the next three or four months, but some adjustment in our diet will be necessary.

Some areas of India are having still more difficulty than we are experiencing. Some time ago when Arthur was in Calcutta there was talk of almost total food rationing there. This has not gone into effect yet, but there are long queues for food.

On meat days, in school at Landour, it is rationed to 3 ozs. per person. White sugar is very seldom on the table; no butter or margarine can be secured; fruit is scarce; white bread never seen. (This is in spite of the tremendous rise in school bills.)

The children do have to eat hard, dark, dry bread. But while shortages have certainly affected their diet and they are not getting the quantity and variety they would like, yet up to this point I don't think the students have really suffered.

One interesting sidelight is that this is the first time that I remember that food parcels are coming in "duty free" from foreign countries. This perhaps is just a temporary thing, but it indicates the fact that the government is aware of food difficulties.

General Conference As Seen
By Child — Youth — Adult

As you read this, many of you will be standing on the campus of Upland College or at the nearby Upland Church in California on the occasion of the 95th Annual General Conference of the Brethren in Christ Church. Many others will be wishing they could be there.

The Crusaders Page editor attended these annual convocations as a child, as a youth, and as an adult, and shares some of his actions and reactions below.

His first excursion to General Conference was in 1934 when the assembly met at a lovely camp ground belonging to another denomination at Ludlow Falls, Ohio. Since he was a lad of 9 summers, his involvement in business sessions, and indeed in any sessions, were kept at an absolute minimum. He reports the following impressions and activities: gay frolics among the many tents, as many trips to the snack counter as the parental purse would allow, the feeling of envy and frustration when the conference members marched past in sober priority to take the first seats in the dining room, the feeling that the whole operation was extremely important.

Although this was his first such experience, his father, the late Rev. Eli H.
Hostetler, who had joined the Sippo Valley Church in Ohio around 1928, attended conferences at Merrill, Michigan in 1929, and Air Hill, Pennsylvania,in 1930, reporting with real joy the time of fellowship with the brethren. Eli outfitted a Model A Ford Stake Truck for the excursion to Air Hill, and told of needing to buy water for his overheated engine on the mountain roads of the Quaker State.

In 1935 the General Conference was in the Heise Hill Church, about 15 miles north of Toronto. Ten year old Paul observed with round-eyed wonder the "strange people of this foreign country, and was a bit disappointed that they were very much the same as people back home. He remembers the skinny tires on the bicycles (called "wheels") by most Canadians then), the clipped accents, the policeman on duty at the highway which was a dusty gravel road at the time. He had learned to worm his way through the large crowd to the very front of the chow line, but was accosted one noon by a motherly but stern lady who objected, "I'll thank you not to push so much, and I'll also thank you to wash your dirty face and hands before you eat!"

A more fragrant memory through the years was the fine program for children.
Paul attended all (well, most) of these,
and remembers a kind old man who loved boys and girls so much that he cried as he told them the wonderful story of our Lord who loves small people. The man may have been Abner Martin of Pennsylvania. May God bless all the teachers of boys and girls.

The scene now shifts to a General Conference in 1939 on the campus of Messiah College. Again the Hostetler family were quartered in a tent pitched on the lawn behind "Old Main." The preacher in the tent next to theirs insisted on retiring early and getting up early, and registered a strong complaint when his neighbors did not do the same.
This was the first time that Paul realized that conference was that he was very much "in love" with a certain girl who at the time had eyes only for a handsome tenor of the Messiah College Quartet. Too timid to do anything about the situation, he suffered in silence as he worshipped from afar.

At that conference he noticed Bill Boyer talking to the important leaders of the church with ease and poise, and longed for the ability to do the same.
When Jacob Ginder noticed Paul one day and talked to him man-to-man, his heart swelled with happiness and pride.
In succeeding conferences, as long as the aged Pennsylvania Bishop could attend, they always had a good visit. It probably was just one of many interesting contacts to Brother Ginder, but for a teenage lad, it was pure gold. Church leaders today should be more aware of the young people at Conference, and take time to talk to them.

The Crusader Editor's next memorable conference was in 1948 at the Camp Grounds in Southern Ohio. He was just newly-engaged to be married, and remembers only one person at the conference. When the Conference was at Stayner the following year, he spent most of his time in the booth where his fiancée worked, and missed most everything else!

At the Manhattan, Kansas Conference in 1951, the name of Paul Hostetler was announced with other appointments to the Nominating Committee. This was his orientation into the inside workings of the total General Conference and he was active in all Conferences from that date on.

As he recalls the early and the latter years of General Conference attendance, his outstanding memories relate to good Christian fellowship, fascinating business sessions, heart-searching inspirational services — in short, learning to know with ever deeper appreciation the good people who compose the membership of the Brethren in Christ Church.

This year Paul goes to Conference feeling older—his father died very suddenly some weeks ago. Eli Hostetler instilled a deep love for the Church in his children. Paul's prayer is that his own ministry may prove as successful.

For the newly responsible Church in Africa, Easter Day, April 18, was—in the words of one of its ministers—"a time of beginning... and a time of ending."

A Time of Beginning

The Consecration Service

Anna Ruth Zook

Bishop Climenhaga administering the vows to Alvin and Thata Book.

To Alvin:
"Do you promise by the grace of God to assume the office of a Bishop and to serve to the best of your ability?"
"Do you promise to shepherd, carefully and kindly, the flock over which the Holy Ghost has called you to be the spiritual overseer?"
"The church assigns you these duties..."

To Thata:
"Do you now publicly consecrate and dedicate your husband to the Lord as the servant of God, to be used by Him and for Him as He sees fit and may direct?"
"Do you promise in the presence of God and these witnesses that you will loyally support your husband in the work to which God has called him, sharing with him in its burdens and sacrifices?"
"Do you accept the provisions of the church...?"

Almost a thousand people sat silent in the Matopo Church, ears strained forward to catch the humble assent to the vows.

Then the solemn pronouncement rang out on the still, bright morning:
"By instruction and authority of the authorities of the Brethren in Christ Church I now confer upon you the office of Bishop of the Rhodesia Regional Conference of the Brethren in Christ Church, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

The vast congregation rose as one body as Alvin and Thata knelt toward the altar. The ministers laid their hands on them. Earnestly, Bishop Climenhaga invoked God's blessing upon them.

Easter morning seemed to be offering her best to this momentous occasion—the consecration of Bishop and Mrs. Alvin Book. The sky was cloudless, fathomless blue. The air was alive and golden. The chill it had held in the early hours disappeared as the sun climbed higher.

Africans, missionaries, and visitors stood about outside in small friendly groups before the service began at eight. Then, while the organ played reverently, Bishops Climenhaga and Musser entered the church and took their places in the center front of the platform. Ministers, missionary men, and the interpreter-song leader filed into the waiting rows of chairs at the back of the platform. Alvin and Thata sat on the right front seat, next to the center aisle, facing the platform.

Then the people began filing into the church. There were smart young lady... teachers in their bright and best. Next would come a missionary lady or two, then an old, bent grandmother hobbling on a stick, skirts almost sweeping the floor, black headdress wound high above her wrinkled, brown face. Then, perhaps, a European visitor from town, and after her an overseer's wife would move soberly. It was the same on the men's side. Smart, handsome young teachers, after them grizzled old men, some dressed in ancient coats and trousers which had been carefully preserved for the best occasions through the years. Then missionaries, town visitors, more teachers, more old fathers. So they came and so they sat—Africans and Europeans mingled together in a common bond of expectancy for this great occasion.

When all were settled in their seats, Bishop Climenhaga read the invocation—selected verses from I Corinthians 12, and led in prayer. Then the huge congregation burst into song:

(“It is known in earth and in heaven . . . Tell out the story of Jesus.”)

Again the congregation sang as though they joined Bishop and Mrs. Book in consecrating themselves to God:

“Nkosi, namhla, ngiyathela, ngingowakhuko ukuphela”; “Lord, today I pour myself out; I am yours completely.”

Bishop J. E. Musser, in the consecration sermon, aimed to show how necessary it was for the Bishop to listen closely for the Will of God to guide him in fulfilling his responsibilities to his office and also to his people. When people thought he should act a certain way and the dignity of his office seemed to demand the opposite, then it was time for him honestly to ask God to help him strike a balance between the two.

After the sermon, Alvin and Thata soberly received the charge read by Bishop Climenhaga and stood to bind themselves with the vows of Bishop and wife.

Then they stood waiting as Bishop Climenhaga continued: “My beloved brother, you have been chosen as the Bishop of the Rhodesia Regional Conference of the Brethren in Christ Church for a term of five years. At this time I retire as Bishop of the Rhodesia Regional Conference of the Brethren in Christ Church.” It was as if he lifted the mantle from his shoulders.

The vast congregation rose once more and sang triumphantly: “Malihambe Ivangeli, elizweni lonke” (“Let the Gospel go out into all lands!”)

Rev. N. Moyo closed the service with prayer.

A Time of Ending—

The Farewell Service

We entered this second service at eleven o'clock. Bishop Book led the service in clear authoritative Sindebele. The huge congregation went through the preliminaries of the meeting a bit half-heartedly. There was an invocation prayer by Rev. N. Dlodlo, opening song (Izwi limakade), Scripture reading by Rev. N. Moyo, opening prayer offered in Tonga by Rev. S. Mudenda.

Then a special song by an African male quartet from Matopo.

What we'd really come for was to hear farewell words from the ones who had with such courage and love guided the church work here in Rhodesia for the past five years—Bishop and Mrs. Climenhaga.

Mrs. Climenhaga spoke first, a tiny, birdeike woman — but possessed with wonderful courage. Love shining from her eyes she spoke to the young people first, then to the African women. She thanked young and old for the help they had been to her. She gave special thanks to the ministers' wives for their help in supervising the practical arrangements at the love feasts and other church functions. She ended by admonishing them from Scripture.

When she sat down, one mother, overcome with emotion, broke into singing the farewell song, "UJehovah Abe-nawe" (God be with you).

Bishop Climenhaga began by recounting a number of amusing incidents from his childhood here in Rhodesia, then launched into his message from John 21:15 to chapter's end, enjoining the church to love God and follow Him.

The special song which followed, sung by Matopo teachers, was haunted by the sadness of farewell.

When they sat down, old uMfundisi Khumalo got up to give words of appreciation for the Climenhagas at the airport, Pete Stern said what was in all hearts like a great prayer for them: "parents of the missionaries, too."

The closing song swelled from our hearts like a great prayer for them: "UJehovah Abe-nawe . . . Size sibonane" (May God be with you . . . Until we see each other again).

Rev. P. M. Khumalo led in closing prayer and benediction. After that we all filed out and shook the Climenhagas' hands as they stood by the door.

"To Think That He Has Forgiven Me!"

It was a misty, rainy Easter. But that, too, was the answer to someone's prayer! Dear Grandmother Iwamoto could come and worship with us because of the rain. Had it not rained, she could not have come, perhaps, because of the busy-ness of her son's poultry farm. Her face was radiant with joy. When Doyle took her home by car in the afternoon—she lives some distance away and must walk or come by bus—she said to him, "Christ died for me, didn't He?"

"Yes," said Doyle.

"It was because I was such an awful sinner that He went to the cross?"

"Yes, because all of us were such awful sinners."

"And to think that He has forgiven me!" she ended.

The work in her heart is genuine. Like a flash of glory the true Light shone in and the darkness is all gone. What an encouragement and joy she is to all of us! These other recently-come-to-faith ones require so much tender care. They are so unsure and sometimes hardly growing, it seems, that we are tempted to ask the Lord, in reverence, we trust, but with a wee bit of impatience, "Dear Lord, can't You do a little better than this?" But when we are tempted to wonder whether God is in them at all, then we recall His power revealed in Grandmother Iwamoto and take courage once more. His ways are so different with each one, and we cannot begin to predict how He will deal with anyone. Not all, by any means, come so instantaneously into victory. But we're so glad this one did.

"Special Kind of Joy"

Easter Sunday, by our special invitation, the mother of Mr. Hakuno, the young man who was saved several summers ago and is studying to become a doctor, came to church for the first time. Her son has repeatedly urged her to read the Bible, and so recently she bought one. We wanted him to buy the book Basic Christianity, but we gathered that even though he wanted it to give to his friends to read, he didn't want to ask his parents for the money. So we put a bug in his mother's ear and she bought the book for him. But before she could send it, her daughter started reading it. Then her husband took it along to read on the train. She herself hadn't finished it. So she said she wanted to buy another one so they could have one copy at home and send the other one to her son in Kyushu.

She then told us she has the same trouble with the Bible. Whenever she wants to read it, either her daughter or her husband has it and she always loses it. I laughed with her with a special kind of joy. Such thirst for the Word will surely have its reward. I pray the day will come when mother, husband, and daughter will each have his own Book and hold it precious. Please pray for the conversion of this Hakuno family. He is an eye, ear, nose, throat specialist. It is a fine, fine family. Mrs. Hakuno is most certainly hungry. Jesus promised, "Blessed are those who hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled."

HISTORY — how dry! Minutes and statistics — how boring! Really? No, not really; if only we have eyes to see the vital, loving operation of God, transcending dates and figures. Let's make a “spot check.”

At Marlyn Avenue (Baltimore, Md.) To be explicit, this church is not actually in the city, but so close that only the tax collector or the city mapping engineer can tell exactly where Baltimore ends and Essex begins.

About five years ago a four-acre wooded tract was purchased for ten thousand dollars. A sign was planted at 611 South Marlyn Avenue, announcing this as the site of a coming Brethren in Christ Church.

A parsonage was secured on Homberg Avenue, on a lot which at the rear is adjacent to the church property. Houses on this street were still in the building when Rev. LeRoy Walters, as first pastor, with his family moved in, early September, 1960. They were quite crowded on the first floor until the second floor was completed. After one month, however, they were holding prayer meetings in the basement.

October 23 of 1960 was an important Sunday: first, the Fred Slagenweits and three children were received into church fellowship; next, ground was broken for the church building; and then the parsonage was dedicated.

The present pastor, Rev. Rupert Turman, is most enthusiastic. Everything he says is prefaced and concluded with the remark: “The work is most encouraging.” There are fifteen hundred homes in this parish, within walking distance, and practically untouched by any other church. Fox Ridge, only three-quarters of a mile away, is building rapidly.

Eighty-five per cent of these people come from rural West Virginia to obtain employment in the city. Many of them bring Christian tradition with them, especially that of attendance at Sunday school. This arm of the church is growing strong, with an enrollment of over two hundred, an all-time high attendance of 197 on Palm Sunday, and 152 present on Easter when half the congregation had gone home to West Virginia.

As facilities became crowded out, the junior boys went to the furnace room for their class sessions. They liked this spot, which had been tiled and fitted for the purpose. But the Fire Department ordered them out until such time as the furnace is turned off for the summer season. Of course the problem of a place for these boys would recur in the fall. The nursery also overflows with the beginner’s class. The adult class with an enrollment of 75, should be divided. In view of such situations, plans are being made to erect a Christian Edu-

View of parking lot and rear of the church.

Pray for Marlyn Avenue church. Only God can give enabling for the staggering challenge of opportunities on the horizon.

Christ’s Crusaders at Adney Gap (Virginia.) Nelda Aldridge reports that the group met in advance at the church to discuss plans for the coming “Youth Weekend.”

Rev. Victor Nichols was coming home from Pennsylvania, and they asked him to speak on Saturday evening, February 6. He gave a very inspiring message from Ecclesiastes 12:1, “Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.”

Lord’s Day following, the young people were in charge of the morning worship hour. Their theme was, “To Worship or not to Worship,” demonstrating the right and wrong. The following typical characters were impersonated: Mr. Bad Manners and his Girl Friend, Mr. Slouching Jim, Miss Late-comer, Miss Baby-sitter, Mr. Sleeping Tom, Miss Gum-chewer, Miss Primper, Miss Primper, Mr. Never-riser, Miss Late-comer, Mr. Slouching Jim, Miss Gum-chewer, Miss Baby-sitter, Mr. Hymnbook Destroyer.

The young people had noon lunch at the parsonage, and in the afternoon went to hear the “Carolinians,” a Southern gospel quartet at the Gospel Tabernacle in nearby Roanoke.

It was a good day, and ended with fellowship and supper at the parsonage.

In transmitting this report, the pastor’s wife adds, “And do lift them up in prayer, please.”

Christ’s Crusaders at Bellevue Park (Harrisburg, Pa.) The Brethren in Christ Commission on Youth designates an annual “Christ’s Crusaders Day.” This year it fell on February 7, and at Bellevue Park the spotlight was on youth.

The hymns were significant: "Shepherd of Tender Youth," and "For Christ and the Church." Larry Bigham led responsive reading of the Scripture, selected from Proverbs and Ecclesiastes. Marilyn Bigham, Barbara Williams, and Randall Miller, Jr. gave comments on what these passages meant to youth, and how they should be applied to their own lives. Zenas Brehm gave the prayer.

Guest of the morning was Rev. James Harris, Executive Director of Greater Harrisburg Youth for Christ. He spoke informally to the youth department in the Church school hour, then addressed the morning worship service on the subject, "My All for Christ." His message challenged both young people and adults to sincere and dedicated Christian service.

An offering was received for the building program of the Greater Harrisburg Youth for Christ.

In the evening service, an inspirational program of gospel music was presented by the Nye family of Hummelstown. Their three children as well as the parents participated. Brother Nye gave his testimony of having been saved. Whereas he formerly entertained with his electric guitar in taverns and dance halls of this area, now he gratefully uses his talent in Christian services and in singing the praises of the Lord.

The first Sunday featured the music teacher from the local elementary school; the second was Family Sunday; third, a dynamic young minister from a nearby church college; and fourth, Homecoming, with the son of a former pastor as the special guest.

A shortage of teachers has meant that some classes are overcrowded, and other of the smaller classrooms have been literally packed.

Pray for the work, that souls may be saved and that workers may be found to carry on as the people continue to come in.

Morning Bible Study at Life Line Mission (San Francisco). Coffee and doughnuts—the traditional American way to start the day. Add to this thirty minutes with the Scriptures, and you have what mission pastor, Harold Paulus calls "Morning Bible Study." Sensing the need for a period of clear Bible instruction to supplement the evening gospel services, in March of 1964 he felt it was God's time for him to begin this half-hour of study. It is held daily, Monday through Saturday, from 8:30 to 9:00 a.m., with the coffee and doughnuts served after the lesson. For the first year of its operation, this study session has had an average attendance of one hundred.

Rev. Paulus began with teaching the events and meaning of Holy Week. Then followed a detailed course in the Book of Acts, with a map to trace Paul's missionary journeys. Next, the parables and miracles of Christ were studied with live interest.

Then the study went into a "whole Bible view" of the plan of redemption, beginning in Genesis, tracing it through historical and prophetical record, through the life and ministry of Christ as recorded in the Gospels, and ending with the events of His second coming. A course in the Book of Romans will probably come next.

Rev. Harold Paulus addressing his Morning Bible Study class. Notice the veiled head. It is that of a five-month Christian woman, once deep in sin, now walking with the Lord and growing in grace.

The mission pastor and Rev. Walter Bowan conduct these studies. The results have been most rewarding, both to teachers and to hearers. The main purpose is to teach the Gospel in simple language (I Cor. 2:1-2). The atmosphere is informal, and attention good. Opportunity for personal work after the lesson is excellent. The way is open to "get next" to these men, to know them, and to help them with their problems.

Says Rev. Paulus, "We covet the prayers of the church for the continued blessing of God upon this effort to reach men and women with the gospel."

Bible Hour at Cincinnati Mission (Ohio). Listen, they're singing!

"Boys and girls for Jesus; This our earnest prayer."

Each Wednesday they gather in the chapel with Katie Rosenberger for Bible Hour between four and five o'clock. What happy faces to look into! And what a joy to hear them singing choruses and songs about Jesus!
The boys and girls know there is a “quiet seat.” Each one who refrains from talking except when recognized by the leader, and who pays careful attention to the lesson, receives a little gift at the close of the hour.

Memory work is encouraged and, periodically, rewards are given. What a delight to listen as they quote their memory verses!

At the present time a series of lessons is being given on the Ten Commandments. It is most interesting to observe the children’s reactions as the studies are presented.

Sister Rosenberger has had the privilege of seeing seven of her Bible Hour children bow at the altar and be saved.

They need your prayers. Many come from homes where they receive no encouragement to godliness or the Christian life.

Perhaps requests for prayer come to sound rather routine. We have heard them so often. But if we will read each item for itself, we will come to realize that these requests are wholehearted and sincere.

Let us remember too that we are all wholly dependent upon God; the most gifted has nothing but what has been given to him; and only God is able to defeat the enemy, surmount difficulties, give courage, and bring the wanderers back to the fold.

To pray is both the least and the most that we can do.

Dr. Harold L. Fickett, pastor of the 5,700 member First Baptist Church of Van Nuys, California:

“We are associated in a partnership with God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Spirit,” he said. “All Christians around the world, including those behind the Iron, Bamboo, and Sugar Cane curtains, are part of this partnership. And we must always remember that even one man with God on his side is in the majority.”

The greatest business in the world isn’t the United States government or the United Nations or “big steel,” according to Dr. Fickett, but the Christian partnership with God because “it has the greatest product and is the only business that can make a good man out of a bad man.”

“The Christian has the assurance of future profit — the knowledge that he will spend eternity with the risen Lord. This convention has been wonderful and we should return to our areas of service with hearts on fire for a needy world, but it has only been a brief foretaste of the joy that lies in the unending years ahead.”

This is Skyline View

TEN MILES EAST of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, in the midst of a beautiful residential development and surrounded by numerous others which lie on all sides in little pockets of the rolling landscape—homes of well-employed fathers with well-housed, well-clothed, and well-fed families—here is a roadside church, along busy U.S. Route 22, “Where the race of men go by.”

Neighborhood is in five or six busy motels, where tourists checking in on Saturday night sometimes inquire about churches — more often are not enough interested to ask. But when they have locked the door and laid the key on the dresser, they will pick up a little announcement of services at Skyline View Church with an invitation to attend.

During last year’s season hardly a Sunday passed but that one or two families enroute joined in a devotional hour with this congregation.

From the gift of choice lots for church and parsonage, its history has been marked by providences—like the coming of Christian school teachers into the community, with immediately willing hands for the work—like the family who considered it worth while making a thirty-five minute drive to join the Sunday school staff, to direct music, and to superintend a Daily Vacation Bible School—like the coming of eastern headquarters for the Narramore Foundation, just across the road, with unknown potential for blessing and growth.

Like the Spirit’s work in individual hearts, bringing peace for conflict and motivation for listlessness—like the Holy Week services with Rev. Lane Hostetter, and the Easter morning communion when more than sixty participated and when, in the effectual evangelistic service which followed, a young mother of six or eight weeks’ contact accepted Christ—like the subsequent conversions—all testifying to the fact that the “good hand of our God” is upon us.

It is gratifying to record that from a charter list of 10, the church roll has increased to 29 and several other families are considering. This is not a proselyting church, but when hungry hearts find no pasture where they are members, they naturally rejoice to find a home and real nourishment with the people of God. One member has testified that some time prior to his coming to Skyline View, he was impressed by the conduct of a softball team in another Brethren in Christ church.

Attendance at morning worship regularly exceeds that of Sunday school. During the worship hour a kindergarten church is conducted for pre-schoolers. This is an important activity inasmuch as most of the families in the area have small children.
Real effort was put into the NAE's International Crusade known as "March to Sunday School in March," and the results were rewarding. Skyline View ranked second in their class, and had an increase of more than three hundred per cent over their beginnings in March a year ago.

With evangelical emphasis throughout its services, the church endeavors to present the gospel in an atmosphere which will appeal to the cultured and intelligent. Since March, a senior choir has been singing on alternate Sundays. An excellent ladies' quintet sings once a month, and a junior chorus is heard occasionally.

With a charming view to the hills surrounding Fishing Creek Valley and Manada Gap, with a spiritual view to the hills of God whence cometh all our strength, the Skyline View believers pursue their callings with diligence and their Christian witness with real devotion. The pastor is concerned about reaching the community for God.

A white man still has a chance to be Christian; he still has a chance to go through Samaria; he still has a chance to write the ticket in terms of human dignity. Notwithstanding enormous difficulties, if the white man will proceed as quickly as he can on the basis of his own Christian tradition, on the basis of his own democratic ideals, the whole world will rise up to call him blessed. It will follow his leadership but it will no longer be driven by his whip.

J. Wallace Hamilton in The Thunder of Bare Feet (Fleming H. Revell Company)
When we came to Tokyo after furlough, eighteen months ago, we of course came back to actually nothing so far as friends, home, or church was concerned.

Beginning from nothing proved to be very stimulating and exciting in many many ways. The mission provided us with temporary housing in Fuchu which we now reflect upon with much appreciation. For friends we had to begin all over anew by making contacts in our community and neighboring areas. We sense how the Lord directed in helping us to become a part of this community. We now have many friends in our Japanese community upon whom we can call for fellowship, guidance, and help when it is needed.

During those first eight months at Fuchu we spent most of our time and concerns in doing personal evangelism, on a man to man basis, trying to get the community to realize that we are here to help them in their daily problems and in the spiritual realm especially. This as you all know is a very slow process but gradually this knowledge and confidence has been established to a certain extent. I feel that most of the community look upon us now as Americans whom they can trust and they have accepted us as part of the community—a fact which is not true of many foreigners living in Tokyo.

Our first formal Christian meeting, April 24th of last year with eight attending, in the foreigner's little living room in the Fuchu house was a big experience for us. Since that time we have met monthly with 14-18 attending. After we moved into this larger Koganei house last October this Shinmachi meeting moved to a believer's home in that area and we have continued to attend.

From this little meeting several of the new folk who attended of course got convicted and had a desire to become Christians.

Last October we began a weekly Bible study in the home of one of the new believers, and this has been going every Sunday night since. Sakiyama san approached me in February with the question of helping him begin a cell-group in his home on Wednesday nights but failed to get a group started. He gave up in discouragement and disappointment but through attending our fellowship meetings in our Fuchu house a new spark of interest developed for local evangelism and he decided to try again with our help. He is in charge of the meeting. We attend and continually keep bringing new people. Usually 6-10 attend this meeting—a full house for his 4-5 “matt” room. We have been studying the Book of Luke and, to my surprise, he has been following our method of conducting the meeting. That is, he does not do all the talking and leadership; we all take turns in leadership, teaching, and discussion.

Sunday Mornings
(1) During the first six months of our living in Tokyo, I spent most of the Sunday mornings hunting for a good English-speaking church for the family. Some of the family had not been happy about our returning to Japan and we felt that getting the children into a good English-speaking Sunday School program (since we had nothing of a Japanese one to offer) would be very helpful in their new period of adjustment. Our plan apparently worked and all our family are happy to be back again in Japan—and especially here in Tokyo.

(2) The second six months on my part was spent mostly in attending local Japanese churches on Sunday mornings, meeting the congregation, and getting to know the pastors. This has been extremely helpful in getting the lay of the land in our local area of Koganei, Kokubunji, and Fuchu. By doing this the local pastors learn who we are and that we are here. Also there will be opportunity for inter-fellowship among our groups—a blessing to any work.

(3) On most of my Sunday mornings during the past six months, I have been attending services with our Yamaguchi folk now living in Tokyo. This has been most rewarding. I greatly enjoy meeting with these who have churches which they attend regularly and then afterward go out and have dinner together for discussion and close fellowship. This, I feel, was and is a vital part of our Tokyo ministry and which can only be done on a Sunday morning. Enlarging my vision of the Tokyo church's total ministry has been very stimulating to me.

From Now On?
We are planning something like this for the present: during these next few spring months cover this area with literature and home contacts, getting to know more people. Then in September, sometime from 20-30th, have a special evangelistic campaign in the Shinmachi area for 3-7 nights. After this series of meetings, begin a Sunday meeting on a weekly basis here in our home, with all the other meetings in other homes as we do now. The accompanying picture shows a Thursday evening get together here in the mission home when John Hostetter visited Tokyo in early March. We count on your prayers.

Our Glorious King

in the next 10 years. It is being charted also by what each of us is today in our inmost being.

There are no legislative enactments, either positive or negative, that will of themselves produce greater life in the Spirit or insure us against spiritual decadence affecting the church. The future of our beloved fellowship will be determined as much or more, by the maintenance of a warm personal relationship with the Saviour as by the legislation enacted here today. May we ever know that righteousness which comes alone by a living faith in Jesus Christ effecting regeneration, by a personal experience with the Holy Spirit effecting sanctification, and by a devoted walk effecting a holy life pleasing to the Father. A scepter of righteousness is the scepter of His Kingdom.

His Kingdom

And indeed a Kingdom He has! From the hour He came preaching in the early morning of His ministry, until He stood in the shadows of Pilate's judgment hall Jesus spoke of His Kingdom. There is no term of the Scriptures more in need of clarification than this. Eric Sauer has made a valuable contribution to our understanding of the Kingdom in his book "The Triumph of the Crucified." He defines the Kingdom as "the kingly rule of God as it comes from heaven by the transforming of mankind and the establishment of the kingdom is for the present dispensation hidden in the church. Through the preaching of the Gospel and the resultant regeneration, the kingdom of God is being established now in the hearts of men.

May I quote again from this same renowned scholar when he says "The programme for the present time is not the transforming of mankind and the creating of Christian nations. This will not take place before the coming visible kingdom of God (Isa. 2:3,4; 19; 21-25). But the present work of God is 'to take out of the nations a people for His name' (Acts 15:14), that is, not Christianize the races but evangelize the races, for the purpose of calling out a super-national people of God (Matt. 28:19; Mark 16:15). A general nominal Christendom has no justification in the New Testament. It is apostasy from Christianity and is after all only a monstrous mental delusion' (Kierkegaard)."

Here are truths with tremendous implications for us today. My beloved brethren, we believe that this same Jesus whom we preach is coming back again. We are looking for that blessed hope and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ (Titus 2:13). We affirm that our mission is to preach the Gospel so that from every kindred and tongue and people and nation there may be those redempted by the blood of Jesus. We declare plainly that we are strangers and pilgrims on the earth looking for another country that is an heavenly country (Heb. 11:13-16).

Let us then be under no delusion as to the primary task of the Brethren in Christ Church. Our primary task is not to reform society. (Such reform is often triggered by the reaction of the savoury salt of the true church upon the conscience of society.) Nor is our primary task to preserve neglected Bible doctrines (although to delete a single such doctrine robs the church of spiritual stature Matt. 5:19). However, our primary task is to preach repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ. It is to prepare a people for the return of our King. It is to tune men's ears for the voice of the archangel. It is to ready a church for the opening note of the last trump. Then shall we be caught up with them to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord! (1 Thess. 4:16,17). Ah my brethren—never forget it. There is coming a new day! A new heaven! A new earth! A New Jerusalem! Our glorious King on an eternal throne with a sceptre of righteousness! Verily the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ and He shall reign forever and ever! (Rev. 11:15).

As ambassadors of the King of this kingdom we are here to beseech men to be reconciled to God (II Cor. 5:20). We should be under no delusion regarding the results of our ministry. We are not here to establish a New Testament Israel of God in North America, nor anywhere else on the earth for that matter. Christ will do that in Jerusalem upon His returning (Zech. 14:4-11). We will not found churches that meet the pseudo-religious inclinations of carnal man in his unregenerate state. To borrow a phrase from the agnostic Pierre Burton, we will not build "Comfortable Pews." Burton sees little difference in the qualifications for joining the average church or the average civic club. Let there ever be a difference in joining the Brethren in Christ Church. Some of our well meaning brethren rather lament the fact that the name of our denomination is not readily identified with one of the historic churches of Christendom reknown. But could it be there are unexplored advantages in us not being a "nationally advertised brand." Herein lies a glorious opportunity to present the claims of Christ and the absolute necessity of the new birth as a pre-requisite for church membership. And be assured of this—wherever Christ is preached in sincerity and the power of the Holy Spirit—there will sinners be converted and added unto the church.

Let the church therefore have a prophetic voice—a forth-telling ministry. Let us have a "thus saith the Lord" for our generation. The word of our King is vital to every one of the 3½ billion people now on the face of this earth. It is relevant to their deepest needs. It is our responsibility to communicate the message of our King to all men everywhere. Dare we remain behind the walls of our church buildings and the comfortable patterns of our economic social life? No many of us are sitting on the bleachers. It is down into the battle we must go. Every one of us a soldier for the King.

Momentous opportunities are before us, staggering responsibilities are upon us. The world is straining every nerve to reach material goals bounded by the extremities of time and space. What will the church do to attain spiritual goals which reach into a boundless eternity and rest in the very heart of our glorious King. In spite of modern methods of transportation and communication we continue to fall appalling short of reaching our generation for Christ. We have scarcely begun to see what God can do through us. Could not we have an accelerating spread of our people throughout the provinces of Canada, the States of the Union, and indeed around the world? Let every member of the Brethren in Christ Church be filled with the Spirit and daily directed from heaven in soul-winning and see what God will do!

We have books on "Soul-Winning Made Easy" and "You Can Be a Soul-Winner—Here's How." These have been a blessing for a few. Maybe we need books on "Soul-Winning Taken Seriously" and "I Will Be a Soul-Winner Here and Now." And perhaps everyone of us should write them in the living epistles of our lives for all to read. Our problem in communicating the Gospel to our generation is not so much one of mechanics as it is one of dynamics.

All our resources must be mobilized for the world mission of the church through every institution and agency of the brotherhood. We must truly look to our bishops and pastors to set the pace in personal sacrifice. We challenge our congregations to saturate every community with the Gospel. We encourage the Board of Christian Education as it (Concluded on page twenty)

MESSIAH COLLEGE

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will be honored guest at the fifty-fifth annual Commencement of Messiah College, Saturday morning, May 29. In addition to receiving the College's first honorary degree, he will address the thirty-five graduates and their friends. General Eisenhower's religious herit-age is rooted in the Brethren in Christ Church.

The former President's early family history is associated with the Brethren in Christ Church. His grandfather and two uncles were ordained ministers of the denomination. As a youth he attended a Sunday school of the church in Kansas. The College Library holds photostatic copies of Sunday School records and other family historical materials in the Historical Reading Room and Archives. The largest cash gift ever received by Messiah College was given by his aunt and her husband, Christian O. and Amanda Eisenhower Mussur in 1940.

Dr. Richard D. Allen of Watertown, Massa-chussets, will join the science faculty at Mess-siah College in September 1965. He is a special-ist in cell biology, a new field of emphasis in the biological sciences. He will hold the rank of assistant professor and will teach courses in cell biology and microbiology.

Dr. Allen attended Messiah College, Up-land College and received the B.A. degree from Greenville College in Illinois. He received his Master of Science from the University of Illinoi and holds the Doctor of Philosophy from Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa. At the present Dr. Allen is a research fellow in biology under Dr. Keith B. Porter at Harvard University. He is working under a postdoctoral fellowship given by the U. S. Public Health Service. UPLAND COLLEGE

On April 10, 1965, Upland College celebrated its 45th Commencement by graduating the largest senior class in Upland's history. Thirty-seven well trained graduates were added to the alumni rolls. Of this number several are entering Christian service, others are pursuing further education and still others are entering such professions as teaching and social service. All of these graduates are a credit to Upland College and are continuing living evidence of the implementation of the Upland College motto: "A Christian College With a Vision for Service."

Graduation in April was a marked departure from the traditional June date. This occurred because Upland College is now operating with a trimester calendar. Such a calendar enables a senior to complete his baccalaureate degree in just three years; this year it made it possible for most of Upland's seniors to complete their work in April, at the end of the second trimester. The third trimester is now well under way and student interest and enthusiasm indicate this new calendar will be effective and successful.

In addition to the spiritual, scholastic, and social activities that fill a college schedule, Upland College is also busily engaged making proper preparation for the coming General Conference to be held on the campus during June. It is always a privilege to house the General Conference and Upland is always anxious to be a hospitable host. For many this may be their first opportunity to visit Upland College while it is in full operation; for most Conference attendants it will also be the first opportunity to visit or use the facilities of the recently completed Women's Memorial Residence Hall.

Upland College continues to examine itself and evaluate its program in the effort to serve its constituency, its alumni, and its students. Various paths are open to the small Christian college in its quest for quality and integrity. For several years one of the areas under study has been that of merger with another institution. Through this last year such a study was conducted with two other nearby Christian colleges. Those negotiations led to the merger of the other two colleges, but Upland chose not to align itself with the newly merged institution. Through the coming year Upland College has planned for continued and exhaustive study of merger. Such study will be based upon sound criteria that will guarantee continued strength and protection for alumni, students, faculty, and friends of Up-land College.

In the months that lie ahead, Upland College anticipates the continued prayers and support of her friends and constituents. Plans are now being finalized for the coming academic year; by God's help and your support such plans will lead to a miracle year for Upland College.

NIAGARA CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

At the recent convening of Canadian Conference, N.C.C. received substantially increased support from the Canadian churches. In the face of a mounting operating deficit of recent years, the church came to grips with the possibility of losing N.C.C. or the more realistic approach of getting behind the school financially. It was with an overwhelming vote that the Canadian churches moved to assure N.C.C. of their support by revising the budget for the following year. With such increased financial support and the good moral support indicated at the conference, N.C.C. looks ahead with optimism and confidence that N.C.C.'s doors will remain open for the training and guidance of the young people of our church, the leaders of to-morrow's church.

Rev. Paul Hostetler, pastor of Bridlewood Church, Toronto, spent the past week conducting evangelistic services during each chapel period. Rev. Hostetler's ministry was greatly appreciated. His oldest daughter, Beth, is a grade 9 student here; his wife Lela is a graduate of N.C.C.

The N.C.C. chorus spent Easter vacation touring in Pennsylvania. We wish to express our thanks for the many homes that were opened to them and the kind hospitality extended to our students wherever they sang. Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Ruegg accompanied Mr. Lady and the chorus and all enjoyed the trip.

Mr. Lloyd Hogg, B.A., has accepted a teaching position on the staff of N.C.C. for the coming year. Mr. Hogg is a graduate of N.C.C., as is his wife, Lorna. Lloyd has taught for nine years at the Elementary school level. He received his B.A. from McMaster University at Hamilton. For the past two years Lloyd has taught in the secondary school system in Hamilton. Lloyd has served on the N.C.C. board for several years. The Hogs have three small sons.

Pauline Nigh and Mary Sider, both Grade XIII students won honors in a public speaking contest held in Fort Erie by the Rotary Club. This took them on an expense-paid trip to the United Nations and other points of interest in New York City during the Easter vacation.

The Niagara Choral Society is a community choral group sponsored by N.C.C. and its alumni under the direction of Mr. Charles S. Lady. Guest soloists included Mr. Donald Doig, tenor, a Fullbright scholar who studied voice in France and Mr. Peter Haddock, clarinetist, who was with the Buffalo Philharmonic and who has just won a chair with the Boston Philharmonic.
General Conference Concerns in the Late 1870's

Article III.—Decided: That whenever a minister or laymember becomes negligent in discharging his duties, absenting himself from religious services, etc., he shall be visited and admonished, and treated with as much patience as the case will permit.

1877

Article IV.—Decided: That the church has no special formula to be used in the administration of baptism, but that they shall follow the practice of the old brethren as much as possible in accordance with the Word of God.

1878

Article X.—Would it not be for the good of the church and the promulgation of sound doctrine, that brethren elected shall follow the practice of the old brethren in Canada having accepted, with the Word of God, as much as possible in accordance with the assistance of another Elder, and himself from religious services, etc., he sent them forth to ordain.

Decided: That brethren elected shall follow the practice of the old brethren in a council. shall not pass resolutions contrary to the doctrine as held forth by the brethren before being ordained.

Decided: That when brethren are elected to office, the Elder of the district, with the assistance of another Elder, and several other brethren shall examine such brethren as to the soundness of their faith, and if found blameless shall be ordained.

Article XII.—Decided: That district councils shall not pass resolutions conflicting with the rulings of the general council.

Article XVI.—Inasmuch as a colony of brethren from Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, intend to locate in Kansas, they ask leave of general council to choose an Elder to accompany them. The request having been granted, they having made choice of Bro. Jesse Engle of Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, and the council having confirmed their choice, it prays the church in his district to release him.

Article I.—Decided: That the brethren of general council of the United States having offered union, and the council of the brethren in Canada having accepted, the union is hereby considered complete and hereafter there shall be but one general council. — (Unanimously carried.)

Article V.—Are members allowed to take more interest than that fixed by law?

Decided: That it is considered extortion and consequently it is not allowed.

Article VII.—The subject of changing the annual for a triennial council was considered.

Decided: That annual councils shall be continued.

Article IX.—Decided: That the Kansas brethren be permitted to purchase a tract of land for the benefit of the poor widows and orphans, to remain under the supervision of the church, the finance to be raised by voluntary contributions.

invigorates the vital arteries of church life. We enjoin the Publication Board to accelerate the dissemination of sound, attractive and spiritually impelling literature. We urge our benevolent, relief, and mission agencies to expand their ministries of compassion and salvation throughout the world. We solicit young men to swell the ranks of the ordained ministry, and call all our youth to expose every legitimate Christian vocation to the fire of their personal spiritual dynamic. We commission our colleges, impregnated as they are with an evangelical Christian philosophy, to intensify their excellence in training our youth. We command every soldier of the cross, commissioned and non-commissioned, to vigilantly man his station of prayer.

In shame we admit that our potential to evangelize is far greater than our commitment to Jesus Christ. "Let tents of ease be left behind and onward to the fray." The scandalous use of our material resources for personal luxuries and material security is an affront to the promises of God, a betrayal of our allegiance to our King, and a denial of the true means of grace to the untold millions yet untold. Christian brother, as you travel through this world-travel light. Here we have no continuing city—but we seek one to come! Hear again the word of our Lord Jesus, "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God" (Luke 16:24) and again, "It is more blessed to give than to receive" (Acts 20:35).

Do we believe the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ is a glorious Kingdom? Do we believe it outshines all the glories of all the earthly kingdoms of this world? We today can answer with a resounding "Amen!" This is the sincere confession of our hearts. May the Spirit of God possess us fully. Then, as said of our spiritual fathers, "God added His testimony by signs, by miracles, by manifold works of power, and by distributing the gifts of the Holy Spirit at His own will" (Heb. 2:4 N.E.B.).

By the Grace of God we have looked upon Our Glorious King—His Person, His Throne, His Sceptre and His Kingdom. The high privilege of identification with Jesus Christ carries with it serious responsibility. In turn this responsibility is abundantly matched by the grace of God. We of the Brethren in Christ Church of this generation are as Paul said "the heirs of the ages which have gone before us" (1 Cor. 10:11 Phillips). This hour our hearts are full of courage for we follow Christ the King—Divine, Eternal, Righteous and Victorious. We occupy until He returns. This is not marking time until He appears. It is the onward thrust of a bold fearless venture in holy living, kingdom building and in dynamic church life.

By God's grace we shall not fail. Someday we shall see the King on His throne. We shall experience the glorifying touch of His sceptre. We shall inhabit His Kingdom and, mystery of all mysteries we shall share His glory. He is Lord of Lords and King of Kings and they that are with Him are called, and chosen, and faithful (Rev. 17:14). Amen.

Manor Enlarges Again

The Manor Brethren in Christ Church, 1 mile south of Mountville, Lancaster County, Pa., whose beginnings date back to the early days of the denomination, was crowded with Sunday morning worshippers. Long known as a missionary-minded church, results of recent local outreach demanded both additional sanctuary and classroom space. Thus it was with an air of joy that the church and its friends assembled in a dedication service on May 10. Bishop Henry Ginder preached the dedicatory sermon, and Pastor Roy Peterman led his congregation in the prayer of dedication. The joyousness of the occasion reached a high point of expression in music by the three choirs, directed by ministers of music Emerson Frey and Mrs. Joe Lehman.

It was in the early 1700's that families by the name of Schock and Hostetter settled in Manor Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. From the descendants of these families came the early beginnings of the Brethren in Christ Church in this area. First, in association with the entire county, then in the formation of the Manor-Pequea District in 1872. For a time all public worship was conducted in the homes of the members. In 1886 the Manor church was built at its present site when Benjamin Herr deeded a portion of his farm for this purpose.

In the five structural changes, all sides of the original building have been altered. Separate entrances for men and women were removed in 1909. Pictures (lower left and right) show continued exterior developments, except the recessed pulpit added in 1954. Classrooms, restrooms, central heating, water system and interior decoration accompanied these changes. The present enlargement is a 32' x 36' wing (pictured above) that provides 10 additional classrooms, a library and kitchen. Classrooms on the main floor combine as an overflow area for the sanctuary and on the ground floor as a children's worship area. New carpet has been laid in the sanctuary and annex, and the entire exterior covered with white aluminum siding. These enlarged facilities will now accommodate a congregation of 350; cost of the project was about $32,500.

The development of congregational life during the years has progressed with the church's physical development. For many years the bishop of the district had oversight of all the churches with a number of ministers assisting him. Jacob Graybill, Henry Heisey, C. N. Hostetter, Sr., served as bishops in these early years; George Seitz and Jacob L. Heisey as local ministers. The period of transition from the district pattern of operation to the pastoral system took place under the leadership of Henry Hostetter, particularly during the years 1942-1952. Frederick Frey assumed pastoral responsibility in 1952. In 1957 the Manor congregation became a part of the Atlantic Conference. Roy Peterman was called to be Manor's first full-time pastor in 1960.

As building and congregational life have evolved, so have the means of spiritual ministry. The first Sunday school, organized in 1913, met only bi-weekly in the afternoons. Later a full Sunday school program developed. In the last 13 years with pastoral leadership the Sunday school has shown almost continuous growth, increasing from a low of 98 in average attendance to the high of 193 last year. Worshippers include those new in church fellowship and those whose families have worshipped together for many years, including the ninth generation of the Schock family. Young People's meetings of the 1930's have now become an active Christ's Crusaders group. Music and missions have been deeply intertwined in the congregation's spiritual expression. Long before the organ was used in services, groups of local youth ministered in song. This continues as three active choirs, numbering about 70 voices. In a mid-week evening of study and song, choir practice and moments of inspiration are effectively combined in a one hour period.

In 1922 Roy H. Mann left Manor for Africa. Five members have followed as foreign missionaries since then. $190,000 given in the last ten year period is indicative of the local congregation's supporting interest. Four pastors, now active in Brethren in Christ churches, were once young people at Manor. Teachers in our colleges, short term service workers, ministers' wives and those with denominational responsibilities have entered Christian service from this congregation.

With a realization of God's guidance upon the church in the past, Pastor Peterman and his congregation thus committed themselves to future opportunities: "We dedicate ourselves to Christ, to the worship of God, and the service of His Kingdom——"
